The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The specification is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 112 first paragraph as failing to provide an adequate written description. The differences in structural limitations conveyed by "fluoroscopy" as compared to "imaging" have not been specified.

Claims 5 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112 first paragraph for the reasons set forth in the objection to the specification.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 17-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a,e) as being anticipated by Jensen et al (6175614). Jensen teaches an x-ray apparatus with an automatic brightness system (ABS) comprising x-ray tube 100 operated at a predetermined loading factor (current and high voltage), collimator 102 (beam limiting unit), detector

Art Unit: 2882

108/110 (image generating unit) for generating an image of a predetermined size based on x rays passing through an object region of interest, data processor (brightness computing unit that calculates brightness of a predetermined region in the image), ABS control 118 (a controller that determines the x-ray tube loading factor based on brightness and performs feedback control of the loading factor, lines 11-14 of column 10) and region of interest defining means 114 (judging unit that determines whether the region defined by the collimator superposes the predefined region and repositions the region of interest if it does not, lines 30-39 of column 3, lines 42-49 of column 4 and lines 28-33 of column 8) based in part on collimation parameters 128.

Applicant's arguments filed November 8, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments are based on how the claimed apparatus is to be operated rather than on a comparison between the claimed structure and that taught by Jensen. Furthermore, the distinction between "fluoroscopy" limitations and "imaging" limitations has not been explained and does not appear in the disclosure as alleged.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
